ABSTRACT

This paper mainly has a focus on pain and suffering of the immigrant. This also brings to the light that one should think before exile. It has mainly showcased the experience of the novelist Rohinton Mistry. It must be a moral value for each and every individual of the Indian citizen even the foreigner to decide their immigration. Modernization is the root cause for this immigration due to globalisation. Economic problem is also one of the reasons which compels them for immigration. It asserts the breaking of family bond also because of this immigration.
